We have finished our review

Dear Trustees

We've checked that you have met the terms of your enforceable undertaking.

Based on the information you gave us we're satisfied that you've rectified the contraventions.

What you need to do

Make sure that you comply with your obligations in the future, because we may charge significant penalties if you don't meet them. Any further contraventions of superannuation law may risk your fund's compliance status.

As a trustee of a self-managed super fund (SMSF), you are responsible for managing your fund. You need to understand your duties and obligations. Trustees of SMSFs need to meet:

- › the clauses of the fund's trust deed
- › the requirements of superannuation law
- › the provisions of the Corporations Act 2001
- › other general obligations, including rules under tax and trust law.

Where there are conflicts between your trust deed and superannuation law, the superannuation law overrides your fund's trust deed.

What happens next

Finishing this review into your obligations doesn't mean we can't take further action if we need to. If we decide to look into your SMSF's super and tax affairs again, we will respect any decisions and agreements we made during this review. However, we will only do this if you gave us all of the information we needed.

Yours faithfully
Emma Rosenzweig
Deputy Commissioner of Taxation
