- 9.21 Notwithstanding Rules 9.19 and 9.20, where more than one Legal Personal Representative or parent or guardian of a Member has been appointed as a Trustee in place of that Member, those Legal Personal Representatives or parents or guardians as Trustees shall have one joint vote for the purposes of any meeting and resolution but this restriction shall not apply if the Legal Personal Representatives or parents or guardians as Trustees are the only Trustees of the Fund.

 - 9.23.4 where the minute or resolution does not relate to a meeting, the discretion, authority or power to which the minute or resolution relates shall be deemed to have been duly exercised.
- 9.24 A Corporate Trustee may, subject to Rule 9.25, exercise or concur in exercising any discretion or power conferred on the Trustees by the Trust Deed to which these Rules are an annexure or by these Rules by a resolution of its directors or governing body in accordance with the constitution or memorandum and articles of association or other rules for the internal management of a company which is a Corporate Trustee and may delegate the rights and powers conferred on it by the Trust Deed to which these Rules are an annexure or by these Rules.
- 9.25 All minutes and resolutions of the Trustees concerning decisions made under Rule 5.11 to pay a Death Benefit in respect of a deceased Member require the prior written consent of the Legal Personal Representative of the deceased Member.

- 11.1 If a provision of the Trust Deed or these Rules would otherwise be wholly or partly invalid because it:
- 11.1.1 subjects the Trustees to direction by another person; or

- then the Trustees' consent is required for the giving of the direction or exercise of the discretion.

RULE 12 INCORPORATION OF REGULATIONS

- 12.1 The Rules include and incorporate the Regulations to the extent that Regulations impose covenants or obligations on the Trustees and these Rules shall be read on the basis that:

- provided that these Rules shall not be so read, and no such provision of the Regulations shall be incorporated if to do so would constitute a breach of the power granted in Rule 6 to amend all or any of the provisions of these Rules or if express provision is made in these Rules excluding provisions of the Regulations and the Trustees are permitted by law to do so.

2. How a self-managed superannuation fund works

Sole Purpose

A self-managed superannuation fund is to have the sole purpose of providing retirement benefit for members, or for beneficiaries if a member dies.

Definition - self-managed superannuation fund (SMSF)

A self-managed superannuation fund is a Fund that has:

- fewer than 5 members;
- all its members are Fund trustees or are directors of a corporate trustee, subject to limited exceptions including if they have a legal personal representative to act as trustee or director on their behalf;
- no member who is an employee of another member, unless they are relatives;
- no trustee who is paid for their duties as trustee.

Trusteeship of the Fund

For as long as the Fund operates as a self-managed superannuation fund, you will also be required to be an individual trustee, or a director of the trustee company, subject to the following:

- if you are under 18, you will need to have your parent, guardian or a legal personal representative act on your behalf.
- if you are not capable of managing your own affairs because of legal disability, you will need to have a legal personal representative act on your behalf.
- if you appoint a person as your legal personal representative under an enduring power of attorney, that person may act on your behalf.
- on your death, your legal personal representative may act in your place as trustee until your death benefit commences to be paid.

Eligibility to act as a trustee or trustee director

A person is prohibited from acting as a trustee of a self-managed superannuation fund (either as an individual or as a director of a company acting as trustee) because of:

- insolvency (bankruptcy);
- being convicted of dishonesty;
- being subject to a civil penalty order under the SIS legislation; or
- the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) or Australian Prudential Regulation Authority (APRA) having disqualified the person if they are satisfied that the person is not a fit and proper person to be a trustee.

If the person is disqualified from being a trustee or a director of a corporate trustee, then the person or director cannot be a member of a self-managed superannuation fund and should immediately resign as trustee or director of the corporate trustee of the Fund.

Members

You must operate in two capacities; one as trustee or a director of the corporate trustee of your Fund and the other as a member.

Compliance with SIS legislation

If a superannuation fund is to receive tax concessions it must be regulated under the SIS legislation. By complying with that legislation certain contributions to the Fund will be tax deductible and the Fund's income is taxed at concessional rates. For the Fund to comply it must satisfy certain rules relating to the receipt of contributions, the payment of benefits and the investment of the Fund's money.

Trust Deed

The Trust Deed is the legal document which sets out the rights and obligations of the Trustee and Fund members in detail. You can inspect the Trust Deed of the Fund by contacting the Trustee of the Fund.

Investment Strategy

The trustees of all superannuation funds are required to have an investment strategy which takes into account the circumstances of the whole Fund.

A copy of the current investment strategy is available to you on your request to the Trustee.

Annual Reporting

Each year you will be provided with a report which will show details of your member account. Certain other information will be available to you on request from the Trustee.

Contributions

Under the rules of the Fund, contributions can be made by you or on your behalf. Tax deductions for contributions are available to employers for their employees and generally to persons who are self-employed or who receive some employment income.

Contributions can be broadly divided into two categories – concessional (or pre-tax) and non-concessional (post-tax).

Concessional contributions

Concessional contributions include employer contributions (including salary sacrifice contributions), personal contributions for which a tax deduction has been claimed, certain foreign superannuation fund benefits, directed termination payments and some amounts allocated from fund reserves.

Concessional contributions are subject to 15% contributions tax as such contributions are considered assessable income of the Fund.

Concessional contribution cap

An annual cap on concessional contributions applies on a financial year basis. The cap is $25,000 for 2018/19 and will be indexed to average weekly ordinary time earnings (AWOTE) but will only increase in $2,500 increments.

Concessional contributions which are split to a spouse are assessed against your cap and not your spouse's cap.

The taxable portion of a foreign superannuation fund amount is exempt from the concessional contributions cap.

Concessional contributions above the annual cap may be refunded to the individual and taxed at their marginal tax rate less a 15% offset for contributions tax already paid. If an excess concessional contribution is not refunded to the individual, an equivalent amount is added to their assessable income and taxed at their marginal tax rate. Excess concessional contributions not released from the Fund automatically become non-concessional contributions.

Concessional contribution charge

The excessive concessional contributions charge is an interest penalty that applies when the concessional cap is exceeded. The charge applies on the increase in tax liability as a result of adding excess concessional contributions to assessable income.

The excessive contributions charge begins to apply on the first day of the income year relating to the excessive concessional contributions and ceases to apply on the day prior to the due date of the individual's first notice of assessment.

The charge is payable at the same rate as the Shortfall Interest Charge (SIC). The SIC rate is adjusted quarterly and the charge is calculated and compounded daily. The SIC rate is available from the ATO.

Non-concessional contributions

Non-concessional contributions are not subject to tax in the superannuation fund. They include:

- personal contributions for which no tax deduction has been claimed
- spouse contributions
- Government co-contributions and certain foreign superannuation benefits.

Excess concessional contributions that are not refunded to the individual will be treated as a non-concessional contribution.

Tax offsets may also be available to a person who contributes to superannuation on behalf of their low income spouse.

Non-concessional contribution cap

An annual non-concessional contributions cap applies on a financial year basis. The non-concessional cap is $100,000 for 2018/19. The non-concessional cap for an income year is a multiple of the concessional contributions cap (four times the standard concessional cap).

If you are under age 65 at any time during the financial year, you may invoke the three year 'bring forward' rule and use a maximum cap of $300,000.

Individuals may be able to access the bring forward period for their non-concessional contributions cap equal to two or three times the annual cap, depending on their total superannuation balance.

An additional test applies since 1 July 2017 which may reduce the level of non-concessional contributions that may be made.

Total Super Balance at 30 June	Maximum non-concessional contribution	Bring forward period
Less than $1.4 million	$300,000	3 years
$1.4 million to less than $1.5 million	$200,000	2 years
$1.5 million to less than $1.6 million	$100,000	No bring forward period
$1.6 million or more	Nil	N/A

Where total superannuation balance is the aggregate of a person's accumulation phase interests (both accumulation accounts and Transition to retirement pensions), modified transfer balance (including current pension account values) and any rollover benefits not already in an accumulation account.

There are exemptions to the non-concessional cap which include:

- Government co-contributions
- eligible proceeds that relate to Capital Gains Tax (CGT) small business concessions up to a lifetime limit of $1.48m (indexed) for 2018/19

- payments that relate to structured settlements or orders for personal injuries.

Non-concessional contributions that in total exceed the relevant cap are not refunded to the individual and may be subject to additional tax.

If non-concessional contributions made by an individual in the 2013/14 or later years exceed the relevant cap, the individual can elect to withdraw the excess amount plus 85% of an associated earnings amount from their superannuation fund. If this election is made the excess non concessional contributions are received tax free, while 100% of associated earnings will be taxed at the member's marginal tax rate.

How can contributions be made to the Fund?

Contributions may be made in cash or by transferring assets to the Fund. There are restrictions on the types of assets that can be transferred to a superannuation fund from a related party. The types of assets that can be transferred in these circumstances are:

- in-house assets where the Fund will continue to have no more than 5% of the Fund's total assets in in-house assets
- listed securities (e.g. shares, units or bonds listed on an approved Stock Exchange)
- Business Real Property
- insurance policies owned by a related party except those owned by a member or a relative of a member
- investments in widely held trusts, such as managed funds.

Definition - In-house Assets

An in-house asset is a loan to or an investment in a related party of the Fund or an investment in a related trust or an asset of the Fund which is leased to a related party.

Definition - Business Real Property

Business real property is any real estate which is used wholly and exclusively for business purposes. In the case of farming property which is used in a primary production business, up to 2 hectares of the property can be used for domestic or private purposes.

Definition - Related Party

A related party is a member of the Fund, a standard employer-sponsor of the Fund, or an associate of a member or standard employer-sponsor. Associates include relatives, certain business partners and entities which a member or standard employer-sponsor and/or their associates are capable of controlling.

In-house Assets and Related party rules can be complex and professional advice should be sought prior to undertaking transactions.

Definition – Standard Employer-Sponsor

If an employer so contributes, or would contribute, wholly or partly pursuant to an arrangement between the employer and a trustee of the regulated superannuation fund concerned, the employer is a standard employer-sponsor.

Rules that apply to contributions to the Fund

Member or employer contributions can be made to the Fund at any time for any member under 65. To accept member contributions, the Fund must have received the member's Tax File Number.

If you have reached your 65th birthday you must be working or have worked at least 40 hours over 30 consecutive days in the financial year prior to making the contribution. However, this rule is not required to be satisfied for contributions made for Superannuation Guarantee or industrial award purposes.

Contributions can be made by you or on your behalf up until age 75 (with the exception of eligible spouse contributions, which cannot be made once the receiving spouse has reached age 70). However, from age 75 contributions are permitted only if they are made for purposes of an industrial award or the Superannuation Guarantee.

In special circumstances contributions can be accepted after the relevant age where the Trustee is prepared to exercise discretion to accept late contributions.

Important - Contributors should obtain advice from a qualified professional concerning the tax consequences of any contribution they make to the Fund.

Splitting contributions with a Spouse

You are able to make a request to the Trustee to split an amount of your benefit to your spouse. However, there are restrictions on your ability to split and on the maximum amount of the split, as follows:

1. the requested split amount must be in respect of "splittable contributions". An individual may only split concessional contributions with a spouse.
2. your receiving spouse who is to receive the split must be:
 - a. under preservation age; or
 - b. between preservation age and age 65 providing they have not permanently retired;
 which is intended to ensure your spouse is not able to immediately access the split amount;
3. the maximum splittable amount to your spouse must be the lesser of your concessional contributions cap for the financial year and 85% of your concessional contributions made to the Fund;
4. your request (application) to split must be made:
 - a. within the next financial year after the year in which the splittable contributions have been made to your account in the Fund; or
 - b. the financial year in which your application is made if your entire benefit is to be rolled over or transferred in that year;
5. if you intend to claim a tax deduction for any personal superannuation contributions you must make the election to claim the deduction before the application to split the contribution with your spouse; and
6. you can only make one application to split in each year.

The Trustee must give effect to your split request as soon as practicable and in any event within 90 days of receiving the request.

Definition - Spouse

The spouse of a person is:

- another person, whether of the same sex or a different sex, with whom the person is in a relationship registered under a law of a State or Territory prescribed for purposes of section 2E of the Acts Interpretation Act 1901 as a kind of relationship prescribed for the purposes of that section;
- another person who, although not legally married to the person, lives with the person on a genuine domestic basis in a relationship as a couple; or
- any other person who is recognised by the legislation as a spouse of that person.

Rollover benefits from another superannuation fund

You can rollover benefits you have in another superannuation fund, approved deposit fund or retirement savings account to the Fund at any time.

3. Benefits of investing with the Fund

Significant benefits and pensions

The Fund allows your superannuation benefit to accumulate for your retirement and may provide benefits to your dependants or your estate should you die. The Fund may provide other benefits, such as total and permanent disability benefits, which are paid in circumstances permitted by the Fund's governing rules and the SIS legislation.

If the Fund provides a benefit to you as an income stream, then the amount that you can withdraw each year is subject to payment limits set by legislation. It may not provide an income stream for your lifetime and payments will only be made while there is enough money in your account.

Definition - Dependant

A dependant includes your spouse (as defined above), child, your spouse's child, an adopted or ex-nuptial child, stepchild or a child for the purposes of the Family Law Act 1975. In addition, a dependant includes any person with whom you have an interdependency relationship. Two persons generally have an "interdependency relationship" if they satisfy all of the following:

- have a close personal relationship
- live together
- one or each of them provides the other with financial support
- one or each of them provides the other with domestic support and personal care.

There is also an interdependency relationship where there is a close personal relationship and either or both people suffer from a physical, intellectual or psychiatric disability. There is no requirement for co-habitation or provision of financial or domestic support in this circumstance.

Step-children are not normally considered dependants if the legal marriage of the natural parent to the step-parent ceases (as a result of divorce or the death of the natural parent) unless they are formally adopted under State or Territory law.

The amount of your benefit

After you have been accepted as a member, the Fund will keep an account in your name. Your account may be credited with:

- contributions;
- proceeds of insurance policies;
- transfers or rollovers from other superannuation funds, approved deposit funds and retirement savings accounts;
- the member's share of the Fund income; and
- other amounts as determined by the Trustee.

Your account may be debited with:

- transfers or rollovers to other superannuation entities;
- benefits paid to you, your dependants or your legal personal representative;
- costs of any insurance policy;
- costs associated with the Fund's operation;

- any taxes; and
- other amounts as determined by the Trustee.

The amount of your benefit is the net credit amount in your account at any time.

The Fund may keep a number of accounts in your name at the same time for ease of administration. This may include an accumulation account and a pension account.

When your benefits can be paid

The Government has placed restrictions on when a person can have access to benefits. Benefits can generally only be paid from the Fund when certain conditions of release are satisfied. These include when you:

- have ceased a gainful employment arrangement and have reached your preservation age (see below) and satisfy the trustee you never intend to be gainfully employed part-time or full-time again;
- have reached age 60 and ceased a gainful employment arrangement;
- have reached age 65, irrespective of whether you have permanently retired;
- are unable to work because of permanent or temporary incapacity;
- are experiencing severe financial hardship (subject to the relevant legislation being met);
- have been diagnosed with a terminal medical condition (subject to the relevant requirements being met);
- satisfy the release of benefits on compassionate grounds (subject to the relevant legislation being met); or
- die.

It is also possible to withdraw benefits from the Fund if you are a temporary resident in Australia on certain temporary visas and you have permanently left Australia.

You can rollover your benefit to another complying superannuation entity. Also, you can cash the part of your benefit that is an unrestricted non-preserved benefit. Under the SIS legislation a benefit may comprise three categories as follows:

Preservation Status	Cashing Status
Unrestricted Non Preserved Benefits	These amounts can be cashed at any time
Restricted Non Preserved Benefits	These amounts can only be cashed if you meet a condition of release or you leave the service of a contributing employer
Preserved Benefits	These amounts can only be cashed if you meet a condition of release

Note: Contributions you make to the Fund are fully preserved. Rolled over benefits retain their preservation status. However, all earnings on benefits are fully preserved.

Your preservation age depends on your date of birth as shown in the following table:

Date of birth	Preservation age
Before 1 July 1960	55
1 July 1960 to 30 June 1961	56
1 July 1961 to 30 June 1962	57
1 July 1962 to 30 June 1963	58
1 July 1963 to 30 June 1964	59
After June 1964	60

Once you reach your preservation age you can commence a pension which has restricted commutation rules without ceasing gainful employment.

How benefits can be paid

Your benefits can be paid as a lump sum or pension or a combination of both. Subject to certain restrictions in the SIS legislation, your benefit may be paid in cash or as a transfer of assets or you can rollover the benefit to another complying superannuation entity.

What type of pensions can be paid?

Account-based pensions, market-linked income streams and pensions as agreed with the Trustee are available to be paid from the Fund, subject to certain restrictions in the SIS legislation. In particular circumstances these pensions can be fully or partially commuted to lump sums.

Allocated pensions, fixed term income streams and lifetime income streams may also be currently payable from an established Fund. However, it is no longer possible to commence one or more of these pensions due to changes in the SIS legislation.

Since 1 July 2017 pensions that are in retirement phase (all pensions other than Transition to Retirement pensions) are measured against a Transfer Balance Cap. This cap is initially equal to $1.6 million which is indexed to Average weekly ordinary time earnings (AWOTE) but will only increase in $100,000 increments. Any amount over this Cap must either be rolled over to an accumulation account or withdrawn from superannuation.

There are limited exceptions if the excess over the cap resulted from a Lifetime, Fixed term or Market-linked pension.

It is possible when establishing a new pension to nominate a reversionary beneficiary to whom the pension will automatically continue on your death. The capacity to use this option will be based on whether the person nominated is permitted to receive the death benefit as a pension under the Super Law.

Account based pensions

An account based pension is an income stream where the level of income is at the option of the pensioner, but must be at least equal to the minimum limit set by government regulation and paid at least once each year. The minimum limit depends on the person's age and the balance of the pension account at 1 July in each year. There is no maximum limit to the amount of the pension except where it is taken as a non-commutable (transition to retirement) pension. Where an account based pension commences part way through a financial year the minimum amount is pro rated on a daily basis. If the account based pension ceases and is converted to a lump sum, or transferred to another income stream during a year, then you may be required to take a pro rata payment on conversion or transfer. If your account based pension commences on or after 1 June in a financial year there is no requirement to take a pension payment until after 1 July but a payment must be made before the end of that financial year.

Age at each 1 July	Minimum Factor
Under age 65	4%
65-74	5%
75-79	6%
80-84	7%
85-90	9%
90-94	11%
95 or more	14%

Non commutable pensions

(also known as transition to retirement income streams)

When a member reaches their preservation age and has not met a condition of release they may choose to commence any other types of pensions with limited commutation rules. The limited commutation rules apply between preservation age and the member satisfying another condition of release. Under the limited commutation rules a non-commutable account based pension may be commuted prior to a person satisfying a condition of release if it is to:

- cash an unrestricted non-preserved component of the benefit;
- give effect to a payment split under the family law;
- return the benefit to accumulation phase; or
- rollover the benefit to purchase another income stream.

Upon your Retirement, Permanent Incapacity or attaining age 65, your Transition to Retirement Pension becomes a Transition to Retirement pension "in retirement phase" and is reported against your Transfer Balance Cap.

Note: Where an account based pension is taken as a non-commutable pension, the maximum amount of the payment in any year must not exceed 10% of the pension account balance at commencement of the pension and at each subsequent 1 July.

Market-linked income streams

(also referred to as term allocated pensions (TAPs))

A market-linked income stream is a fixed term pension. The level of income is at the option of the pensioner, but must use set criteria published by government regulation. The annual pension payable is calculated by using the balance in your account at 1 July each year divided by a pension valuation factor. The pension valuation factor is published by government regulation. The pensioner may alter the amount payable in each year by up to plus or minus 10% of the market linked pension payments determined in accordance with the calculation in the legislation, to provide the pensioner with more flexibility to manage their income payments from year to year. The rules that apply to a market-linked income stream depend on whether it commenced prior to 1 January 2006, or on or after 1 January 2006.

Where a market-linked income stream commences part-way through a year the pension amount is pro rated on a daily basis or as determined in your pension agreement. If you decide to commute or transfer your market-linked income stream to another income stream during a year, then you may be required to take a pro rata payment on transfer.

Generally, market-linked income streams are non-commutable. The main exception is where an existing market-linked income stream is rolled over to commence a new market-linked, fixed term or lifetime income stream.

Note: From 20 September 2007 it is not possible to commence a market-linked income stream unless it is from the rollover of another market-linked income stream or complying lifetime or fixed term income stream and it meets certain new minimum payment requirements. Also, market-linked income streams that commence from 20 September 2007 will not receive the 50% assets test exemption for Centrelink purposes.

Important: The following income streams can no longer be commenced from a SMSF. If you require information on the continuation or commutation of these income streams please contact the Trustee or seek advice from a suitably qualified professional.

Allocated pensions

An allocated pension is an income stream where the level of income paid is at the option of the pensioner, but must be within certain maximum and minimum limits set by government regulation. If the allocated pension ceases and is converted to a lump sum or transferred to another income stream during a year then you may be required to take a pro rata payment on conversion or transfer. Allocated pensions must be paid at least once each year.

Fixed term income streams

A fixed term income stream is a pension that is payable for a predetermined period. The level of income that you receive is calculated by an actuary each year and depends on the amount you had to commence the pension, its terms, the investments used to support the pension and the level of indexation (yearly increases in the amount of the income stream).

Lifetime income streams

A lifetime income stream is payable for your lifetime and that of the reversionary or child, if applicable. The level of income that you receive is calculated by an actuary each year and depends on the amount you have to commence the pension, the term of the pension, the investments used to support the pension, the level of indexation (yearly increases in the amount of the income stream) and whether your dependants will receive a pension in the event of your death.

Lifetime income streams that commenced prior to 20 September 2004 continue to be assets test exempt for Centrelink purposes. However, for lifetime income streams that commenced from 20 September 2004, 50% of the purchase price of the income stream will be counted for assets test purposes.

When your benefits must be withdrawn from the Fund

There is no requirement for you to compulsorily withdraw your superannuation benefit from the Fund. On your death, benefits must be paid as soon as practicable as a lump sum, pension or a combination of both.

Relationship breakdown

Superannuation benefits may be split between spouses on relationship breakdown. Couples that have separated can agree on splitting the superannuation interest before, during or after the relationship breakdown. If no agreement can be reached, the Family Court is able to make orders concerning the superannuation interest.

The Trustee may be required to provide information so that a superannuation agreement may be properly negotiated.

Any costs and/or legal fees associated with the Trustee implementing agreements or orders for flagging and/or splitting of superannuation interests may be deducted from the balance of your member account in the Fund. The rules for relationship breakdown now apply to same sex relationships and de facto couples.¹

¹ The laws affecting de facto couples currently do not apply in all States and Territories and independent legal advice should be sought where relevant.

Nominating beneficiaries

Binding death benefit nominations

When joining the Fund you are asked whether you would like to nominate who should receive your superannuation benefits on your death. Under the SIS legislation nominations are limited to your dependants being a spouse (including a same sex spouse), children of any age and persons who rely on you for maintenance and support or someone with whom you have an interdependency relationship. In addition, you may also nominate the legal personal representative (executor) of your estate.

If you have provided a valid binding nomination the Trustee will pay the death benefit to those nominated and in the proportions you have directed. The Trust Deed allows for two types of binding nominations; a non lapsing binding nomination and a three year binding nomination.

It is important to review your nomination, if your circumstances change, particularly if you have a non-lapsing binding nomination. To remain valid, your three year binding nomination must be updated at least every three years. It is recommended that you seek professional advice in relation to making a binding nomination.

If you don't make a binding death benefit nomination, the Trustee may pay benefits to your dependants at the time of your death or your legal personal representative. The payment will be made at the Trustee's discretion, however, the Trustee can have regard to any non-binding nomination or statement of wishes you have made.

4. Risks of super

A member who leaves the Fund within a few years of joining the Fund may get back less than the amount of contributions paid because of the level of investment returns and the Fund's charges.

Investment risks

The risk associated with the investments of the Fund is generally the relationship between the type of investment and the potential returns. Each investment of the Fund generally has different risk and return profiles. Investments that earn higher returns usually carry higher risk and their value may rise and fall much more than those with lower risk. For example, more stable investments such as cash earn lower long term returns but their capital value and returns are less likely to fluctuate. Returns are not guaranteed and the value of investments may rise or fall.

5. How we invest your money

The rules of the Fund permit the Trustee to make a wide range of investments, including the use of certain types of borrowing arrangements that are consistent with the Fund's investment strategy and subject to the Fund meeting the requirements of the investment standards in the SIS legislation.

Important: The Trustee of all superannuation funds is required to have an investment strategy which takes into account the circumstances of the whole Fund.

Investment strategy

When deciding on the Fund's investment strategy the Trustee must take into account the:

- risk associated with buying, holding and selling different types of investments;
- Fund returns and the level of the risk of the investment;
- diversification of Fund assets;
- ability of the Fund to discharge existing and prospective liabilities;
- liquidity of the Fund so that liabilities of the Fund can be met in a timely manner; and
- insurance needs of the members.

Labour standards, environmental, social or ethical considerations are generally not taken into account in the selection, retention or realisation of the Fund's investments.

A copy of the current investment strategy is available to you on your request to the Trustee.

Member choice of investments

The Fund also permits the Trustee to have particular Fund investments kept in your name when requested. This is known as segregation. It is up to the Trustee to decide whether any investment you have selected is suitable to be segregated and any income, costs and charges associated with the nominated investment will be credited or debited to your account.

Investment restrictions

A key area of responsibility for the trustee of an SMSF is investment management. Superannuation law places certain duties and responsibilities on Trustees when making investment decisions. The following outline some of the investment restrictions under superannuation law.

Loans/financial assistance to members or a member's relative

Trustees of SMSF's are not allowed to provide lending or financial assistance from the Fund to a member or a member's relative.

Borrowings

SMSF's are prohibited from borrowing money except in some limited circumstances. Trustees are able to borrow for a maximum of 90 days to meet benefit payments due to members as long as the borrowing does not exceed 10% of the Fund's total assets.

Trustees can also borrow for a maximum of seven days to cover the settlement of security transactions if the borrowing does not exceed 10% of the Fund's total assets. However, trustees cannot, as a matter of course, borrow to settle security transactions, unless at the time the transaction was entered into it was likely that the borrowing would not be needed.

Under the SIS legislation superannuation funds are permitted to borrow under limited circumstances as long as certain conditions are met. It is recommended that appropriate tax and financial advice, including further information about the risks of gearing, are sought before implementing this strategy.

Acquisition of assets from a related party

See 'How can contributions be made to the Fund' under 'How a self-managed super fund works' on page 4.

Investments to be made and maintained on an arms-length basis

Investments by SMSFs must be made and maintained on a strict commercial basis. The purchase and sale price of Fund assets should always reflect a true market value for the asset. Income from assets held by the Fund should always reflect a true market rate of return.

Liquidity and cash flow considerations

While it is possible to invest up to 100% of a Fund's cash holdings, from a prudent management and investment perspective all Funds should hold sufficient cash to cover expenses and taxes that are payable throughout the year. Where benefits are being paid additional cash reserves may be held to meet these requirements.

6. Fees and costs

There are no fees or charges on contributions you make to the Fund or on the benefits paid from the Fund.

However, the Trustee may incur fees and charges from time to time. The types of expenses expected to be incurred may include:

- costs, charges and expenses incurred or to be incurred in relation to the acquisition, registration, custody, disposal of or other dealings with the Fund investments
- all fees, wages and expenses of any person engaged by the Trustee, including auditors, actuaries, advisors, investment managers or custodians
- payment of tax by the Trustee in relation to the operation of the Fund and on behalf of any member in connection to the Fund
- costs, charges and expenses incurred or to be incurred for the preparation, maintenance and distribution of any accounting records, returns, reports or other documents in relation to the Fund
- any other costs, charges and expenses in relation to the Fund's management and administration.

If you wish to compare the impact of the fees and charges that may apply in your circumstances, the Australian Securities and Investments Commission (ASIC) has a number of calculators to assist you. They are available on the internet from www.moneysmart.gov.au and are useful when considering moving funds.

You may also incur charges when you obtain advice in connection with an adviser recommending a particular type of superannuation arrangement or investment. The cost of obtaining this advice would be incurred by you and not by the Fund.

For as long as the Fund is a self-managed superannuation fund, the trustees, and if the Trustee is a company, its directors, are not permitted to receive payments for their role as trustees or Trustee Directors of the Fund.

7. How your super is taxed

The following general taxation information is based on the understanding of the tax laws and rulings current at the date of issue of this Product Disclosure Statement. It is prudent to seek professional taxation advice on your particular taxation position.

Tax on contributions

All tax deductible personal contributions to the Fund and all employer contributions that are within the concessional contributions cap are taxed in the Fund at 15%. Contributions that are in excess of the concessional contributions cap may be included in the individual's assessable income and taxed at their marginal tax rate.

From 1 July 2013, an individual's assessable income may include any excess concessional contributions for that financial year. On receipt of an excess concessional contributions determination from the Australian Taxation Office, the individual can elect to release up to 85% of the amount of their excess concessional contributions for that financial year directly from their benefit in the Fund. A tax offset of 15% of their excess concessional contributions (equating to contributions tax already paid) can also be claimed by the individual in their income tax return. This offset is not able to be refunded, carried forward or transferred.

Where a tax file number has not been quoted and an employer contribution is received, the Trustee is required to deduct tax from the contribution at the rate of 47%.

If a member's total non-concessional contributions exceeds the non-concessional contribution cap, then additional tax at the rate of 45% plus Medicare levy will be due if the excess contribution amount remains within the fund. This tax amount must be deducted from the person's superannuation balance. Alternatively, the excess non-concessional contribution may be returned to the member, with tax being payable on the earnings associated with contribution.

Tax on investment earnings

Superannuation fund investment earnings are taxed at a maximum rate of 15%. However, in exceptional circumstances investment earnings that are regarded as excessive may be taxed at 45%. There are special rules that apply to capital gains. Where fund assets are held by the Fund for at least 12 months a maximum tax rate of 10% may apply to taxable capital gains after deducting any capital losses. Any income and capital gains on fund assets used to pay pensions are not taxable.

The Fund may need to obtain an actuarial certificate if the Fund has both accumulation and pension accounts to determine the tax exempt portion of the Fund's investment earnings for the financial year.

Tax on benefits and withdrawals

Any member benefit payments may be taxed depending on the age of the person receiving the benefit, whether it is paid as a superannuation lump sum or income stream, and the type of component in the benefit.

A superannuation benefit may comprise three components:

- the tax free component;
- a taxable component which includes:
- an element taxed in the Fund and/or
- an element untaxed in the Fund.

In most cases the tax free component is made up of contributions made from after-tax income and that part of your superannuation benefit that accrued prior to 1 July 1983. The taxable component is the total amount of the superannuation benefit less the tax free component. It usually consists of tax deductible contributions made on your behalf or by your employer and earnings on all contributions made to the Fund. An amount that is untaxed in the Fund usually relates to the payment from an insurance policy on a member's death where a tax deduction has been granted to the Fund for the insurance premiums paid.

All lump sums and pensions paid from the Fund after you have reached age 60 are tax free.

If you receive a lump sum or pension from the Fund and you are under age 60 it may be taxed. No tax will be payable on the tax free component of the lump sum. However, the taxable component may be taxed at up to 15% (excluding Medicare Levy) for someone between their preservation age and age 60. For a person younger than their preservation age who receives a lump sum, tax of 20% (excluding Medicare Levy) is payable on the taxable component of the benefit.

If you receive a pension from the Fund and you are under age 60, it is taxed as your income and may be reduced by a proportional amount which relates to the tax free component. You may also be eligible for a tax offset on the taxable part of the pension depending on your age and the circumstances in which the pension is paid. The Trustee is obliged to deduct relevant Pay As You Go (PAYG) tax from the amount of pension paid to you.

Definition - PAYG Instalment

Pay As You Go Instalment is payable by the Fund either quarterly or annually. The time for payment of the instalment depends on the notional tax liability of the Fund. A self-managed superannuation fund is also required to prepare an Activity Statement (either a Business Activity Statement if registered for Goods and Services Tax (GST), or an Instalment Activity Statement if not registered for GST).

Definition - PAYG Withholding

Pay As You Go Withholding is required to be deducted where the Fund is paying a lump sum or pension to a member under the age of 60. The amount of tax deducted is paid to the ATO and recorded on a Payment Summary which is included in the recipient's income tax return.

If a member exceeds their Transfer Balance Cap, then The ATO will issue a determination of the excess amount including a calculation of notional earnings which will need to be removed from a member's nominated pension account either rolled to an accumulation account or withdrawn as a lump sum superannuation benefit. In both cases a tax liability will arise for the fund on the notional earnings.

Providing your tax file number (TFN) to the Trustee

If the Fund does not hold a member's Tax File Number (TFN) higher tax may apply to the member's employer concessional contributions and the Fund cannot accept non-concessional and member concessional contributions.

Any additional tax you pay due to the Fund not being advised of your TFN can (but is not required to) be claimed back by the Fund if the TFN is quoted in the subsequent 3 year period for the benefit of the relevant member.

8. Insurance in your super

The Trustee may take out insurance to secure your benefit in the Fund.

You may also request the Trustee to take out insurance on your behalf. You can nominate the type of policy to be effected in these circumstances.

Typically the insurance will be death insurance, disability insurance or a combination of both. You may be required to give information about your health before being eligible for insurance cover. You would typically be covered from the time the insurer accepts you under the policy, and cover would cease when the policy lapses or you cease to be a member, whichever first occurs.

The Trustee may deduct the cost of premiums from the Fund's income account or a member's account. The Trustee may also insure the assets of the Fund and maintain Trustee liability insurance.

9. How to open an account

You may become a member of the Fund if your application, or if any contribution made by you or on your behalf, is accepted by the Trustee.

10. Other Information

If you would like further information about the Fund, you may contact the Trustee in writing at the address specified on page 2. The Trustee will provide you with the information if it is available and may also provide you with any other information the Trustee reasonably believes a member would need to make an informed assessment of:

- the management and financial condition of the Fund;
and
- the investment performance of the Fund.

Dispute Resolution

If you have a complaint concerning the Trustee, or your membership of the Fund, you should lodge your complaint in writing to the Trustee. The Trustee will then deal with your complaint in accordance with any applicable dispute resolution system contained in the Fund's governing rules, and/or under the SIS legislation.

Conflict between this PDS, the Trust Deed and SIS Act
