Based on the information we have submitted to the ATO, Darren's concessional contributions should equal $22,140.01, breakdown as follows:

Voluntary Employer Contributions	12,015.55
Compulsory Employer contributions	10,124.46
Total	22,140.01

The variance I suspect would either be a timing variance from prior year contributions or can be classed as non-concessional.

Attached are two tax summaries showing the tax scenario with and without the contribution.

With the contribution Darren's tax refund increase by $1,518, so net of the tax paid by the super fund this would be a benefit of $858.

If you have any queries, please let me know.

Hi Jessica

Can you please advise Darren what the tax savings would be in his individual tax return if the $4,399.99 is claimed as a Personal Concessional Contribution?

If the full amount is treated as Personal Concessional Contribution there will be approx. $660 additional tax paid by the SMSF, but I expect this will be less than what Darren could save in his personal return?

Kind regards

Hi Brenda

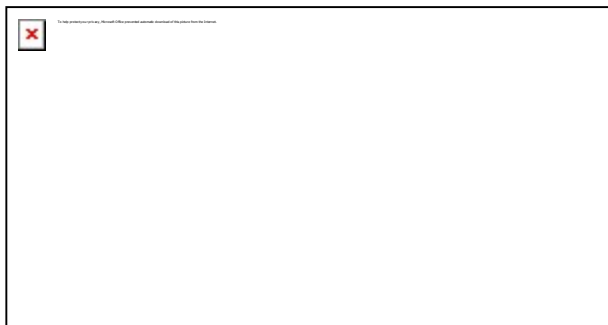

The returns have been lodged with the ATO. If additional superannuation contributions are added, and a confirmation/acknowledgement of deduction provided from the SMSF, we can amend Darren's return to include these. The cost for the amendment would be $150+GST on our end.

I note the deduction would be best claimed in Darren's tax return since his tax bracket is higher than Kerrie's.

Please advise if you'd like to proceed with an amendment.

Our records show that $12,325 was taken up as a personal concessional contribution in the 20-21 year, plus $2,000 Non-Concessional, these amounts were physically received by the SMSF.

Therefore, are you comfortable with the remaining contributions of $4,399.99 to be a Non-Concessional contribution?

Who should this be paid to? Or split between members 50/50?
