Guide to completing a dutiable transaction statement

Do not return this guide with the completed form. Retain the guide for future reference.

Am I required to complete a dutiable transaction statement?

Transfer duty applies when you enter into a dutiable transaction in relation to dutiable property in Queensland. You must complete a dutiable transaction statement whenever you enter into a dutiable transaction.

Notes:

- This form includes questions relating to additional foreign acquirer duty (AFAD).
- Each non-Australian transferor and transferee must also complete an identity details annexure when the transaction involves a transfer of real property (e.g. houses, apartments, business premises or vacant land).

What are my obligations?

A dutiable transaction statement (including an identity details annexure, if required) must be completed and lodged with the document for the transaction within 30 days after the dutiable transaction takes place. If there is no document, lodge a transfer duty statement (Form D2.3) with this form. You must lodge this statement even if a Form 24 Property Transfer Information (available from the Department of Natural Resources and Mines) is completed.

You are also required to retain any records to verify your liability to transfer duty for 5 years.

Where do I lodge my documents?

If you have a legal adviser, you should provide them with the documents for the dutiable transaction you have entered into and the completed Form D2.2. They may assess duty for your transaction if they are a registered self assessor. If you do not have a legal adviser, or settlement or lodging agent, you can lodge with the Commissioner of State Revenue for assessment. Send the form and your documents to GPO Box 2593, Brisbane Qld 4001. You will be notified by email or text message when your documents are received.

How to complete this form

This form has 6 parts (labelled A to F) and smaller questions within each part numbered individually. When completing this form, print or type all responses in boxed spaces. If there is insufficient space, attach additional forms or pages.

Part A – Dutiable transaction

Question 1

Enter the date on which the document establishing the dutiable transaction was signed by the parties.

Question 2

Identify the type of dutiable transaction from the following list.

Transfer of dutiable property	The transfer of dutiable property is the only document representing the transaction.
Agreement for the transfer of dutiable property	The transfer of dutiable property is established through a written document other than transfer; for example, a contract to buy property.
Surrender of dutiable property that is land in Queensland or a transferable site area	A person abandons, abrogates, cancels, extinguishes, forfeits, redeems or relinquishes their right in either land or a floor space area.
Vesting dutiable property under legislation or court order	Property is accrued to a person through legislation or an order of a court; for example, a vesting of trust property in a new trustee to effect a change of trustee under section 15 of the Trusts Act 1973 .

Foreclosure of a mortgage over dutiable property relates	Property of the mortgagor becomes the property of the mortgagee as a consequence of failure to repay a loan.
Acquisition of a new right on its creation, grant or issue	Acquisition of a new right in respect of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> land in Queensland, other than the following interest in land: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a security interest a partner's interest in a partnership a trust interest the interest of a discretionary object of a trust that holds dutiable property a lease or licence of a business conducted in Queensland (other than a franchise arrangement) an option to acquire dutiable property if the acquisition of the property would be a dutiable transaction a right to use an existing statutory licence granted by the state a right to use an existing statutory licence granted by the Commonwealth if the rights under the licence are exercisable in Queensland a cane railway easement granted under the Sugar Industry Act 1999 a water entitlement a licence or right to do a thing that is prescribed under a regulation and sold or granted by the state, a government entity or a government-owned corporation.
Partnership acquisition	A person acquires a partnership interest in a partnership that either holds dutiable property or has an indirect interest in dutiable property. (Note that if that person also acquires a direct or indirect interest in an associated entity that has a connection with the partnership, a separate approved form must be lodged for any associated transaction.)
Creation of a trust of dutiable property	A person who has acquired property other than as trustee starts to hold the property as trustee. A person who owns dutiable property on trust commences to hold that dutiable property on trust for another trust.
Termination of a trust of dutiable property	A person, having held the property as trustee starts to hold the property other than as trustee.
Trust acquisition or trust surrender	A person acquires or surrenders a trust interest in a trust that holds dutiable property or has an indirect interest in dutiable property (includes units in a private unit trust scheme).

Question 3

Identify the type of dutiable property from the following list (includes an interest in the listed types of property).

Land in Queensland	The primary purpose of the transaction is the transfer of land, or an interest in land, located within Queensland.
Queensland business asset	The primary purpose of the transaction is the transfer of 1 or more of the following business assets of a Queensland business: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> goodwill a statutory business licence used for carrying on a business a right to use a statutory business licence used for carrying on a business the business name used for carrying on a business a right under a franchise arrangement used for carrying on a business a debt of a business if the debtor resides in Queensland a supply right of a business intellectual property used for carrying on a business personal property in Queensland of a business.
Interest in property other than a security interest	The primary purpose of the transaction is the transfer of an interest in property other than a security interest.
Residential off-the-plan purchase	A residential off-the-plan purchase occurs when you enter into a contract to purchase new residential property before construction is completed. An off-the-plan purchase generally involves a proposed lot where the title is yet to be registered. Settlement of the contract cannot occur until certain events have happened (e.g. where the owner of the land has not completed all capital works required before the title can issue, such as boundaries, roads, and telephone and electricity connections; or where an apartment block is being built).

New building	A new building is residential premises that is one of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – has not previously been sold or transferred as residential premises (e.g. purchasing a new home directly from a developer) – has been built, or contains a building that has been built, to replace demolished premises on the same land – has been created through substantial renovations. Substantial renovations are generally renovations in which all, or most, of the structural or non-structural components of a building are removed or replaced. Most of the rooms in the previous building must have been affected, and the renovations must have affected the building as a whole. The sale of substantially renovated residential premises generally attracts a GST liability. To the best of your knowledge, identify if the residential premises is a new building.
--------------	---

Provide the real property description or a detailed description of the dutiable property for the dutiable transaction. These details will normally be displayed on the documents for the transaction. As a guide, the description should be sufficiently detailed to enable identification of the property:

- For a Queensland business asset, list all the Queensland business assets involved in the transaction.
- For partnership acquisition, list all the dutiable property held by the partnership.
- For trust acquisition or trust surrender, list all the dutiable property held by the trust.

For example: If a taxi licence is being acquired, state the licence type and licence number, and describe any vehicle (make/model/type/year), equipment, shares or base fees, and any other asset acquired.

Parts B & C – Transferor and transferee details

A party to a transaction is any person who currently has an interest in the property and any person who will have an interest in the property as a result of a dutiable transaction the subject of this form.

Provide the name and current address of all parties to the transaction:

- A party that is disposing of property is a transferor – enter the details for the transferors at Part B.
- A party that is acquiring dutiable property is a transferee, including transactions where they are acting as an agent for another party (see ‘AFAD transferees’) – enter transferee details at Part C.

For each transferee, you also need to tell us the interest in the dutiable property that each transferee is acquiring in the transaction, expressed as a fraction. This excludes any interest that the party held in the property before the dutiable transaction.

For example:

- You are the sole purchaser of a Queensland business. The interest you are acquiring is 1.
- You acquire a business jointly with your spouse. You and your spouse each acquire a ½ interest in the business.
- You own a business jointly with your sister. You then agree to acquire your sister’s interest in the business. You will acquire a ½ interest in the business in this transaction.

Non-Australian entities

Each transferor and transferee must indicate whether they are a non-Australian entity. Each non-Australian transferor and transferee must complete an identity details annexure.

A non-Australian entity refers to:

- individuals who are not Australian citizens (non-Australian individuals include permanent residents)
- companies incorporated outside Australia
- trusts with a country of tax residence that is not Australia
- other bodies (e.g. body politic, corporation sole) formed outside Australia.

If you are an individual with dual citizenship, you are only a non-Australian entity if neither citizenship is Australian.

This information requirement applies regardless of additional foreign acquirer duty (AFAD). If you are an AFAD transferor or transferee, you must also complete this question.

AFAD transferees

For AFAD, ‘transferee’ refers to the acquirer(s) for the transaction (see s. 233 of the Duties Act).

For each transferee, you will need to advise if they are a foreign person—that is, a foreign individual, foreign corporation or trustee of a foreign trust.

You are a foreign individual if you are not an Australian citizen or permanent resident.

A foreign corporation is one that is incorporated outside Australia or in which foreign persons, or related persons of foreign persons, have a controlling interest of at least 50%.

A trust is foreign if at least 50% of its interests are trust interests of:

- foreign individuals
- foreign corporations
- trustees of a foreign trust
- related persons of any of the above, including partners in a partnership.

Provide the following information for foreign trusts:

- Country of establishment—the country where the trust was established. This will not be Australia where the trust relationship was established or a trust deed was made under the jurisdiction of a country other than Australia.
- Country of residence for tax purposes—the country in which the trust is resident for tax purposes. Tax residency may depend on if the country the trust is in has a tax treaty with Australia. If the trust pays tax in Australia and other countries, state the main other country in which the trust pays tax. Seek professional advice or go to www.ato.gov.au/Individuals/International-tax-for-individuals for more information.
- Overseas registration number—equivalent to an ABN, ACN or ARBN
- Foreign Investment Review Board application number—received when originally purchasing the property. Provide this number regardless of whether an exemption was given. Email FIRBResidential@ato.gov.au if you need your application number.
- Other overseas identifier—any other unique identifier separate to the overseas identifier allocated to you in your country of nationality or citizenship (e.g. ID card for individuals; ABN or ACN equivalent that has not been provided as the overseas registration number or another government-issued identifying number for non-individuals).

Where a person is appointed in writing as an agent for another person (the principal) and, under the appointment, the agent enters into an agreement for the transfer of dutiable property on behalf of the principal, the agent is considered to be the transferee when answering the questions under Part C. (See s. 22(3) of the Act.)

Where a transferee enters into an agreement for the transfer of dutiable property for, or for the benefit of, a company proposed to be registered under the Corporations Act 2001 (Cwlth), the transferee under the agreement is considered to be the transferee for the agreement transaction when answering the questions under Part C.

Part D – Other transaction information

Transfer duty is imposed on the dutiable value of a transaction. This is usually either the unencumbered value of the property or the consideration paid or payable, whichever is higher.

The unencumbered value of property is the value of the property without regard to any encumbrance or arrangement. If the consideration for the transaction is less than the unencumbered value, or if any of the transferors in the transaction are related to any of the transferees in the transaction, sufficient evidence must be obtained to substantiate this value and be available for us to verify.

Special rules apply for calculating the dutiable value of certain types of dutiable transactions, such as statutory dutiable transactions, partitions, surrenders of lease, trust acquisitions and surrenders, partnership acquisitions and acquisitions of new rights. If you are completing this form for certain transactions for dutiable property in multiple jurisdictions, you will only need to include the unencumbered value of the property attributable to Queensland. You should refer to the Duties Act 2001 for further information.

For example:

- If you are acquiring a taxi licence, you should provide a separate value for the licence and any vehicle, equipment, shares or base fees or other asset acquired. If you are required to determine the unencumbered value of indirect interests or mergers, provide a full summary of how the value is calculated.
- You buy 30% of the units in a trust that holds land in Queensland. The dutiable value of the transaction will be the consideration for the units or the amount worked out by applying your trust interest (30%) to the unencumbered value of the land held by the trust, whichever is the higher. To confirm the dutiable value of the transaction, you need to provide a copy of the balance sheet for the trust.
- You acquire business assets in a business that is conducted in Queensland and New South Wales. Special rules apply for calculating the dutiable value of the goodwill and intellectual property attributable to Queensland.

AFAD (additional foreign acquirer duty) residential land is land in Queensland that is, or will be, solely or primarily used for residential purposes when certain other criteria are met. (See the Duties Act.) A reference to AFAD residential land includes chattels that are acquired in the same dutiable transaction as the land and where the use is directly linked to, or is incidental to, the use and occupation of the land.

Examples of AFAD residential land include:

- homes and apartments
- vacant land on which a home or apartment will be built
- land for development, such as
 - smaller unit blocks
 - housing subdivisions
 - major developments with a residential component
- buildings refurbished, renovated or extended for residential use.

Where property includes AFAD residential land, the dutiable value of the AFAD residential land (including chattels that are acquired in the same dutiable transaction as the land and where the use is directly linked to, or is incidental to, the use and occupation of the land) must be specified.

Where the transaction forms part of an arrangement that includes other dutiable transactions, provide the full details of the other transactions (e.g. contract of sale between XYZ Pty Ltd and PBF Pty Ltd dated 23/07/20xx) at question 13.

Part E – Concessions and exemptions

If you are entitled to claim any of the following concessions/exemptions, enter the corresponding number in the box shown at question 14. Sufficient evidence to substantiate your claim for concession/exemption under the relevant section of the Duties Act must accompany this form.

Concessions may apply to the non-AFAD-related transfer duty imposed; however, none of the concessions listed below apply when calculating AFAD.

A transaction that is exempt from transfer duty will be exempt from AFAD.

Dutiable transaction statement

About this form

You should complete this form each time a dutiable transaction is entered into, whether or not a Form 24 Property Transfer Information Form (available from the Department of Natural Resources and Mines) is completed.

Notes:

- This form includes questions relating to additional foreign acquirer duty (AFAD).
- Each non-Australian transferor and transferee must also complete an identity details annexure when the transaction involves a transfer of real property (e.g. houses, apartments, business premises or vacant land).

When completed, this form (including an identity details annexure, if required) must accompany the document for the dutiable transaction that you have entered into. If there is no document for the transaction, you must attach a transfer duty statement (Form D2.3) for the transaction.

Before you begin, you should read the 'Guide to completing a dutiable transaction statement' to make sure that you understand how to lodge your documents for assessment and your obligations, and the meaning of terms used in this form.
